The outing coordinator is responsible for collecting payment from individuals who have tee times and reservations with your group. You can secure payment by collecting credit card information, checks or cash. You can arrange for them to pay the day of the outing at check in, however, if they don't show, you are responsible to pay for their tee time and dinner reservation. Advance payment collection is always recommended to guarantee a good turnout. Continued communication is important when reserving tee times for groups.

24-hour notice in advance of the tee time is required for any last-minute changes.

A $50.00 deposit is required to reserve a date. A list of golfers must be faxed or emailed 7 days prior to event. Last minute changes are acceptable with provisions: 15 days prior, the menu plan must be chosen with an estimate on the number of dinners. Ten days prior to event, food order must be set. Type of food will determine how much leeway there is for adjustments.
